When Judge Buxton of North Carolina as a young lawyer made his first appearance at the bar, the solicitor, as is customary in that state, asked him to take charge of a case for him. The young lawyer did his best, and the jury found the defendant, who was charged with some petty misdemeanor, guilty. Soon after one of the jurors, coming round the bar, tapped him on the shoulder. "Buxton," said he, "the jury did not think that man guilty, but we did not like to discourage a young man."

Miss Helein Gould is a splendid law student. I am told she is so thoroughly versed in the law that she could easily pass an examination and become if necessary a practicing attorney. She has a remarkable business head and great executive ability. She has been for the last fortnight at Woody Crest conducting her beautiful and uncestentations charities, bringing bountiful cheer and sunshine to many little hearts. I saw Miss Gould quite recently in a fashionable woman's club house, and she was dressed quietly in black cloth, with the handsomest Persian lamb wrap I have ever seen. She is almost pretty, with a clear complexion, homest eyes—a nice, frank, sensible looking girl, much more attractive than her dark, ugly, little sister, the Countess Castellane, who certainly has not the slightest claim to beauty.

The cleanest, brightest rafest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my bouse, and I want it done at once in omore lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks."

This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light.

Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawatian Electric Company and tell them what you want.

We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers.

The following is a record of the temper atures of the earth at different depths from 100 to 2,100 feet, as taken at the great Foreman shaft, Virginia City, Nev The record was obtained by drilling hole out into the sides of the shaft and insert "Star" Electric Works ing a Negretti & Zambra slow acting ther mometer into the drill hole and leaving i there for not less than 12 hours: for

It will be seen from the above table that, although there is upon the whole a steady increase of temperature as depth is attained, the rate of increase is not uniform and regular. There is no way of telling why this is so, although it has been suggested that in the case where the temperature actually decreased two degrees in the descent of 100 feet—as was the case between the 800 and 400 levels—the difference was due to the character of the rock in which the recording instrument was inserted. MERCHANT TAILOR Chimney Sweeps' Day.

Chinney Sweeps' Day.

On May 1 all the chimney sweeps in London were for years treated to a great feast by the Montagu family of Portman square. The custom originated with Lady Mary Wortley Montagu about the year 1729. This famous English authoress had a son—Edward Wortley Montagu—who is known in history for eccentric life. Having been sent to Westminster school, he ran away three times. On one of these flights he changed clothes with a little chimney sweep and spent a long time with the pweeps as one of their profession. His paranta hunted for him all over the country. At last his hiding place was placovered, and he was restored to them. This happened on May 1, and in commemoration of the happy day Lady Montagu every year afterward until her death gave a feast to the sweeps of London. The Montagus of Portman square continued this custom through all the following generations, and now May 1 has become a general holiday for sweeps.—Philadelphia Ledgw.

Mes and Mes.

The great sinner against society is the synic, the scoffer, the disbeliever, the man in whose spirit negation sits enthroned. "We are saved by hope." The man who awakens hope, aspiration, sonfidence in the spirit of men, contributes something to the social welfare. He is a builder rather than a destroyer. He helps to save men, because he awakens in men the dispositions and the spiritual energies by which their lives are spriched and made useful to themselves and others.—Methodiat Recorder.
